

Mona Helmy is an architect, urbanist, and educator. She received a Doctoral degree in Architecture and City Planning from Stuttgart University. She holds a Master's degree in Urban Design and a Bachelor of Architecture from Ain Shams University "ASU", Cairo, Egypt. Dr. Helmy is an Assistant professor of Architecture and Urbanism at Dar Al-Hekma University (DAHU), Jeddah, Saudi Arabia. She is an Adjunct Professor of Architecture and Urban Design at Stuttgart University. Between January 2010 and December 2017, she was the Founding Chair of the Architecture Department at DAHU. Since 2010, has been a "Habilitation", a research fellow at the Städtebau-Institut "SI" of the University of Stuttgart. Dr. Helmy was a Visiting Professor and an external Examiner at the College of Architecture and Planning (CAP), University of Colorado, Denver, USA in 2010. She has taught numerous courses, conducted several design studios and collaborative workshops on a wide variety of topics. The current research studies of Dr. Helmy focus on "Creative Public Space", "City Imaging and Branding" as well as "City Festivalization and Eventification". As a consultant and advisor in urban design, city branding, and Contemporary Arab Gulf urbanism, she has contributed to a number of significant planning projects and specialized planning and design studies. She has contributed to a number of specialized publications and conference proceedings on the Arab City, Public Spaces, as well as Residential projects in Germany and urban projects in the Middle East. She is a member of a number of scientific committees in international conferences, symposia, and refereed journals.